

Theme: What Do You Think?

Connectors

We can use connectors to add information and to join similar ideas. Some of these connectors are 'and', 'as well as', 'both ... and', 'in addition', 'not only ... but also' and 'besides ... also'.

Read and Learn

1. I learn about different cultures and different types of food from television documentaries.
2. Bill, as well as Marie, feels that parents should let their children play computer games every day.
3. Both parents and teachers encourage children to read more books.
4. To provide feedback, you have to fill in this form. In addition, you have to give your full name and address.
5. This magazine is not only interesting, but also inexpensive.
6. Besides being good at ballet, Patricia is also a great singer.