Using 'and', 'who', 'when' and 'because'

Rewrite the passage using 'and', 'who', 'when' and 'because'.

Ever since I was young, I have always enjoyed reading. This is because of my mother. She fills our house with shelves of books.

You pick up a book and become interested in the adventures that the character goes through. You forget about your own worries and problems. Stories can also teach you how to be a good person. In books, those who are evil always get what they deserve in the end.

Reading takes me to many different places. Reading lets me imagine what other people might be going through. I can also imagine myself in many different adventures.

I am very proud of my collection of books. I like to lend them to other people. I always tell them which are my favourites.

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

Ever since I was young, I have always enjoyed reading. This is because of my mother, who fills our house with shelves of books.

When you pick up a book and become interested in the adventures that the character goes through, you forget about your own worries and problems. Stories can also teach you how to be a good person because in books, those who are evil always get what they deserve in the end.

Reading takes me to many different places and lets me imagine what other people might be going through. I can also imagine myself in many different adventures.

I am very proud of my collection of books. I like to lend them to other people, and I always tell them which are my favourites.