

Using 'and', 'as', 'when', 'where', 'because', 'although' and 'so ... that'

Rewrite the passage using 'and', 'as', 'when', 'where', 'because', 'although' and 'so ... that'.

My mother bought me a mobile phone on my last birthday. It was the best birthday present I had ever received. It was not the latest model that I had been eyeing, but I was still glad that I finally had my own mobile phone.

I am not allowed to take it to school but I take it with me whenever I go out with my friends. My mobile phone has a sleek black casing with a thin silver strip around it. All my friends have commented on how stylish it looks. It is also slim enough to put into my pocket. Sometimes, I hang it on a string around my neck. It is very light. I do not even feel it there. My mobile phone is a clamshell phone. I open it up when I need to use it. On the front of the phone is a huge screen. I have placed a picture of myself and my pet dog, Rusty, on the screen. There is another screen inside when I open the phone. I have another picture of Rusty there.

The most interesting feature in my mobile phone is the music function. I have downloaded many of my favourite songs into the phone. Once I plug in the earphones, I can listen to all the songs. Most importantly, I can still receive calls and messages when I am listening to music. I think the compact phone is very convenient. I do not have to carry many things with me when I go out. To personalise my phone, I have downloaded my favourite ringtones.

I usually communicate with my friends by sending messages. I usually communicate with my parents by sending messages. I seldom call them. I feel that it is more convenient to send messages as they can reply to my message when they have the time. Besides these features, I also make use of the built-in camera quite extensively. I like to take pictures of my friends when we go out. I went overseas on a school trip last month. I used the phone to take pictures of the beautiful attractions there.

Answers Using 'and', 'as', 'when', 'where', 'because', 'although' and 'so ... that'

My mother bought me a mobile phone on my last birthday. It was the best birthday present I had ever received. Although it was not the latest model that I had been eyeing, I was still glad that I finally had my own mobile phone.

I am not allowed to take it to school but I take it with me whenever I go out with my friends. My mobile phone has a sleek black casing with a thin silver strip around it. All my friends have commented on how stylish it looks. It is also slim enough to put into my pocket. Sometimes, I hang it on a string around my neck. It is so light that I do not even feel it there. My mobile phone is a clamshell phone. I open it up when I need to use it. On the front of the phone is a huge screen where I have placed a picture of myself and my pet dog, Rusty. There is another screen inside when I open the phone. I have another picture of Rusty there.

The most interesting feature in my mobile phone is the music function. I have downloaded many of my favourite songs into the phone. Once I plug in the earphones, I can listen to all the songs. Most importantly, I can still receive calls and messages when I am listening to music. I think the compact phone is very convenient because I do not have to carry many things with me when I go out. To personalise my phone, I have downloaded my favourite ringtones.

I usually communicate with my friends and my parents by sending messages. I seldom call them as I feel that it is more convenient to send messages as they can reply to my message when they have the time. Besides these features, I also make use of the built-in camera quite extensively. I like to take pictures of my friends when we go out. When I went overseas on a school trip last month, I used the phone to take pictures of the beautiful attractions there.

I am grateful to my mother for buying me a mobile phone. I have promised her that I will take good care of it.